

About us

HealthNewsReports.com (HNR) is a premier health education and interactive news network. It features timely, in-depth, trusted health information as well as tools for managing your health. HFZ blends health communication and content creation to deliver one of the best health and fitness web portals on the Internet today.

We employ an in-house staff of experts, industry executives, interactive designers, and technology specialists who possess unique expertise in effectively blending interactive multimedia technologies with traditional educational methodologies.

The company is supported by key academic advisors at premier institutions, as well as leading experts in the fields of sales and marketing, communications, and interactive learning.